

Till our parents

do us part

For better or worse

Till our parents do us part
Docu-Reality- Entertainment format

Duration: 30-50 minutes

Country of broadcast: Israel

Broadcaster: Channel 2 Reshet

Producer: Kol Miney

Till our parents do us part

Docu-Reality- Entertainment format

For better or worse.

So you've met, dated, fell in love, moved in together, and then he proposed, you said yes and decided to live happily ever after!

But there was just one thing you "forgot" to do: introducing your parents to his.

Now, your luck has run out.

Each episode focuses on a couple that is about to get married, but whose parents haven't had the pleasure of meeting each other yet.

Till Our Parents Do Us Part will structure and follow that anticipated encounter in a funny, entertaining and emotional way.

At stage 1, each person gets to spend 24 hours with the other's parents – staying in their home, sleeping in his or her partner's teen year's room, and more.

At stage 2, the parents meet for the first time.

They are about to discover that although their children fell in love, they don't necessarily share that feeling for the other side.

But they don't have much choice, and the mothers, as well as the fathers go out on a date. They are all on a collision course!

But wait!

If you thought this will be the show's peek, you've got a surprise coming.

The 3rd stage of the show gets everyone to the same table for a dinner full of tension and anxiety.

At the end of dinner the two families choose a wedding gift for the engaged couple. Now the young bride and groom-to-be have to guess which parents know them best, and whose gift they want to receive.

The experience might not be easy, but will certainly prepare the couple towards all those small confrontations awaiting them happily ever after.

